

Dear all of the Infogroup and the Projectgroup,

I wish you all a healthy and happy 2013 and thanks for your support and mindfulness in 2012 to the victims and their families of the Dam shooting massacre on 7 May 1945.

Today I will reveal you a mystery of the past that puzzles our minds.

What normally happens when someone dies?:

- A doctor must make a statement, whether the cause of death is natural or unnatural.
- When unnatural, police/Justice get the report.
- Unnatural causes can be: an accident, a suicide or euthanasia, or a murder.
- Even an accident can be “death by negligence”, a suicide with help from another is also reason for investigation, as is euthanasia, murder is evident. In all these cases police/justice comes in action.

What happened on 7 May 1945 in the hospitals around de Dam?

- Some people came in dead.
- Some people came in dying.
- Some people came in (heavily) wounded.

All together over 100 people came in.

The doctors will have done what they normally did, unnatural death statements were made.

All the resistance newspapers the days after, cried for the arrest of the possible perpetrators of this “warcrime”.

Suddenly, from above the whole massacre is portrayed as a “misunderstanding” and no one was arrested, witnesses not heard, victims not investigated.

All that could be a cynical political action.

But the doctors made their reports on every one victim.

All these reports are still existing now in Holland, but we can not get an insight because of privacy and so forth. We have even all the dossiernumbers of these reports and we do not want the reports, we only want to let them check the death of about 180 people with the Dammassacre as the doctors could have stated.

Although we are now officially blocked to get the answers on our question, some people within the system promised to try to do what they can, because they support our mission.

The Netherlands are an “example” of modern democracy in name.

We will see what that is worth.

And therefore we could ask YOU in the near future to sign a petition to the authorities to reveal the information on the victims that we need.

Please response.

Have a good 2013,

Arthur Rebatu
